Winemaking

Careful selection of mountainous Merlot to come to the winery in the ideal state of maturity and hygiene. Harvest in small crates up to 20 pounds. Maceration of must with the skins at low temperatures and subsequent fermentation at moderate temperatures of not more than 20 ° C. Separation with mild pressure and almost at the end of the fermentation it stops by means of deep freeze in order to remain naturally semi-sweet. After blending with Muscat of Hamburg wine its Bottled in an inert gas atmosphere.

Food pairing

A modern and attractive semi-sweet rosé wine full of the intense aromas of cherry and strawberry. Rich in the mouth combines sweetness with the coolness of its acidity. It is ideally suited for Asian cuisine and light sweets.
